Ricketts Point Road work closes road

Road work began this week for steam line installation.

Ricketts Point Road between Clearview Drive and Chevron Drive will experience lane closures and possible delays.

During the week of June 7, there will be single lane closures as the road is saw cut and preparations made to excavate across the roadway. The jogging path around Weide Airfield will also be rerouted up to the edge of the roadway at this time.

On June 12 and 13, the road will be closed so the pipe trench can be excavated. All traffic will be required to use Wise and Otto roads as the detour route. The jogging path will be closed during this period.

After the excavation is complete, the roadway and jogging path will be re-established using steel plates for traffic maintenance.

The closure is scheduled to start at 7 a.m., June 12, and the roadway and jogging path reopened no later than 4 a.m. the following Monday morning.

The work in this area is expected to take approximately one and one half months to complete.

These dates and durations are subject to weather and environmental factors.

Many military retirees of the enlisted ranks don't realize there is a local organization dedicated solely to their interests.

The Retired Enlisted Association, a national organization chartered by Congress, has two active chapters in Maryland.

TREA Chapter 9 meets the first Saturday of each month, 3 p.m., at the National Guard 5th Regiment Armory in Baltimore.

The Retired Enlisted Association, TREA, was founded in 1963 in Colorado. The organization is chartered by Congress to represent the interests of all retired enlisted and active duty personnel with 10 or more years of service from all branches of the armed forces.

Those eligible to join TREA as regular members include enlisted persons retired with pay from an active or reserve component for length of service or permanent medical disability.

Reserve and National Guard must have completed all requirements for retirement and have been transferred to the retired list.

Active military membership is open to enlisted personnel on active duty, reserve or National Guard with 10 or more years of service.

APG firefighters demonstrate heroics during I-95 crash

Story by Yvonne Johnson

They don't wish to be called heroes, but few other words besides 'heroic' describe the actions of three Aberdeen Proving Ground firefighters.

On May 11, while returning from a Fire and Arson Investigation Course at the Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute in College Park, Chief Edward C. Budnick, Inspectors Robert M. Farrell Sr. and Thomas "Bubba" Stanford stopped at the scene of a serious traffic accident that had just taken place on Interstate 95, just north of the toll plaza.

Budnick's administrative vehicle had just exited the Fort McHenry Tunnel headed northbound on I-95 when they observed what they thought to be a tractor trailer accident with a fire in the southbound lanes just north of the toll booth plaza.

"In actuality, it was two tractor trailers, two cars, and one pickup truck that were involved in the collision," Budnick said.

One tractor trailer had rear-ended the pickup truck, which was sandwiched between it and the tractor trailer in front of it; another car was in the next lane and was badly damaged, and a car was lodged under the rear axle of the tractor trailer that hit the pickup truck.

There were no fire or rescue personnel as yet on the scene according to the Budnick.

After pulling their vehicle over, Budnick grabbed his turnout gear while Stanford grabbed the first aid kit, and all three crossed over to the southbound side of the interstate using a catwalk to approach the crash site.

"We noticed the fire between the two trucks but it wasn't until we got closer that we noticed the other car,"

Farrell said of the car that was trapped under the rear trailer. With the vehicles on fire smoke and flames were spreading rapidly.

"Then we looked closer and saw there was a guy still trapped in the car," Farrell said.

The other occupant of the car, the driver's niece, had escaped with burns and lacerations to her feet, and remained close, pleading for assistance.

With the fuels and flames quickly spreading, Budnick, using numerous fire extinguishers given to him by Stanford, kept the flames in check, while Farrell went under the side of the second tractor trailer where the man was trapped in his car.

With the flames extending under the trailer, not knowing what the cargo inside the trailer was, and the fire rapidly intensifying, the tires exploding, the trucks saddle tanks ruptured, pouring its combustible liquids onto the ground.

Budnick kept the flames away, allowing Farrell time to bend the twisted window frames away to allow more space.

Farrell used his pocket knife to cut the occupant's seatbelt then wrapped his arms around the occupant's chest and pulled him free from the car. With the help of Budnick, the man was pulled to safety.

The occupant, still feeling the intense heat, requested to be moved further from the crash scene.

"He was screaming for his life. He could see everything. He knew the fire was getting closer and we knew we couldn't wait for the fire trucks. It was obvious if we didn't do something soon, this guy wasn't going to survive," Stanford said.

Farrell treated both occupants while Baltimore City paramedics arrived on location and assisted a critically injured patient, who later died

Community rededicates 42-year old chapel

Story and photos by Yvonne Johnson
APG News

The chapel doors welcome all who enter. Its organ provides the foundation of musical praise. From its pulpit, messages of faith are imparted; upon its altar, pleas of forgiveness and declarations of faith are lain; and its many pews seat the weary, enlightened, uplifted and downtrodden, alike.

These features of the Edgewood Area chapel were the focus of prayers of dedication delivered by members of the Aberdeen Proving Ground chaplaincy during the rededication ceremony held in the chapel sanctuary May 23.

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Carol Van Schenkof, U.S. Army Research, Development and Engineering Command, led the ceremony which was inserted between the Protestant and Catholic services to allow for the inclusion of all congregants.

After undergoing its first renovation in more than 40 years, the Edgewood Area chapel had many stories to tell but none more compelling than the contributions made by its parishioners over the years, Van Schenkof told the gathering.

"All of you have contributed in many ways," Van Schenkof said. "Without you, this day would have never happened."

Comparing the building's restoration to the story of Lazarus, who was brought back from the dead by Christ, Van Schenkof said that, "like Lazarus, this chapel has been reborn because of all of you."

"You have given, built, reconstructed and renovated, but in spite of all that, if you had not had Jesus to touch you in your work here, your work and your sweat would have been for naught," she said.

Maj. Gen. John C. Doesburg, commander of RDECOM and APG, and Col. Mardi U. Mark, APG Garrison and deputy installation commander, offered their remarks.

"It took a lot of hard work by many dedicated people to make this modernization a reality," Doesburg said. "About $1.5 million dollars worth of material, time, and hard work has gone into renovating and modernizing this chapel."

He credited Mark and the Garrison's Directorate of Installation Operations, particularly Kirk Simmons, DIO construction representative; DIO division chief David Carter, project manager Eric

Snyder and the project's sub and prime contractors, with working together and "taking many unforeseen circumstances in stride," to complete the project.

He also recognized Sharon King from the RDECOM secretary of the general staff,

Spec. James Hyde, chaplain's assistant, and former RDECOM chaplain, Col. Larry Robinson, for their "continuous involvement."

To Van Schenkof and current and former APG chaplains, Doesburg said, "to all of mony May 29.

The monument is the first national memorial constructed in honor of all those who served during World War II. It honors the 16 million who served in the armed forces and the more than 400,000 who gave their lives during the that time. Construction of the memorial began in September 2001 and the memorial was opened in April.

Memorials to the nation's heroes in Arlington include these three markers identifying, from left, the members of the space shuttle Challenger, 1986; the space shuttle Columbia, 2003; and the service members who lost their lives in the attempt to rescue American hostages in Iran in 1980.

Thousands of headstones dot the quiet pastures of Arlington National Cemetery in these four background photographs. For the first time, troops from every branch of the armed forces placed flags on the cemetery's more than 290,000 graves for Memorial Day.

Purchase Request submission schedule set

The Edgewood Contracting Division of the Robert Morris Acquisition Center has established its Fiscal Year 2004 Cutoff Dates for Submission of Purchase Requests.

Early customer support in identifying and submitting purchase requests by or before the dates shown will greatly enhance the ability of the Edgewood Contracting Division to meet customer needs.

Early planning and coordination remain the keys to a successful year-end.

Organizations are advised to submit their year-end acquisition requirements as early as is reasonable to minimize the possibility of funds going unobligated at year end.

Schedule for the submission of purchase requests for FY 2004

Noncommercial Items Over $100,000 - July 1

Noncommercial Items Over $100,000 (Competitive) - too late this year - need minimum of six months; however, there may be exceptions. Requests will be considered on an individual basis.

Noncommercial Items between $2,500 and $100,000 - Aug. 1

Commercial Items between $100,000 and $5M - Aug. 1

Short of Award over $2,500 - action brought up to point of award pending receipt of funds - July 1

Commercial Items Under $100,000 - Sept. 1

Requests received after the scheduled dates will be considered on a case-by-case basis and will require approval by the chief of the Edgewood Contracting Division.

DoD launches expanded communications for service members

DoD

The Department of Defense announced April 30 that it is expanding its internal communications efforts with two initiatives during National Military Appreciation Month in May 2004.

An electronic version of the "Stars and Stripes" newspaper is available for downloading at no cost, while the Pentagon Channel, the department's news and information television service, will become available to all U.S. military installations on May 14.

Making the electronic "Stars and Stripes" available world-wide allows service members to view exact replica copies of the newspaper's European, Pacific and Mideast editions, providing timely theater news and information for and about deployed forces.

For the first time, service members in the United States have access to this online newspaper, where the hard-copy newspaper is not printed.

The electronic version of the newspaper is available online at <http://estripes.osd.mil>.

The Pentagon Channel began its expanded service with a live broadcast from the May 14 Armed Forces Day opening ceremony at Andrews Air Force Base, Md.

A portion of the live coverage will include remarks by senior military and civilian leadership.

The Pentagon Channel's daily programming will strengthen DoD's commitment to keeping America's 2.6 million active duty, National Guard and Reserve service members the best informed military in the world.

Previously available only in the Pentagon and through the American Forces Radio and Television Service for service members assigned overseas, the Pentagon Channel now will also be distributed 24 hours a day, seven days a week, to military installations in all 50 states via a domestic satellite.

DoD is also offering the Pentagon Channel to all cable and satellite providers.

Information on how to receive the Pentagon Channel via satellite, cable or the Web is at <http://pentagonchannel.mil>.

Voting do's and don'ts for service members

Department of Defense Directive 1344.10

Service members may:

- ✓ Register, vote and express his or her personal opinion on political candidates and issues, but not as a representative of the armed forces.
- ✓ Promote and encourage other military members to exercise their voting franchise as long as such promotion does not constitute an attempt to influence or interfere with the outcome of an election.
- ✓ Join a political club and attend its meetings when not in uniform.
- ✓ Serve as an election official if such service is not as a representative of a partisan political party, does not interfere with military duties, is performed while not in uniform, and with prior approval of the Secretary concerned.
- ✓ Sign a petition for specific legislative action or a petition to place a candidate's name on an official election ballot, if the signing does not obligate the member to engage in partisan political activity and is done as a private citizen and not as a representative of the armed forces.

- ✓ Write a letter to the editor of a newspaper expressing the member's personal views on public issues or political candidates, if such action is not part of an organized letter-writing campaign or concerted solicitation of votes for or against a political party or partisan cause or candidate.

- ✓ Make monetary contributions to a political organization, party, or committee favoring a particular candidate or slate of candidates.
- ✓ Display a political sticker on the member's private vehicle.

Service members may not:

- ✓ Use official authority or influence to interfere with an election, affect the course or outcome of an election, solicit votes for a particular candidate or issue, or require or solicit political contributions from others.
- ✓ Be a candidate for civil office in federal, state or local government, or engage in public or organized soliciting of others to become partisan candidates for nomination or election to civil office.

- ✓ Participate in partisan political management or campaigns, or make public speeches in the course thereof.

- ✓ Solicit or receive a campaign contribution from another member of the armed forces or from a civilian officer or employee of the United States for promoting a political objective or cause.

- ✓ Speak before a partisan political gathering of any kind for promoting a partisan political party or candidate.

- ✓ Use contemptuous words against officeholders described in 10 USC 888.

- ✓ Perform clerical or other duties for a partisan political committee during a campaign or on an election day.

- ✓ Solicit or otherwise engage in fund-raising activities in federal offices or facilities, including military reservations, for a partisan political cause or candidate.

- ✓ Sell tickets for, or otherwise actively promote, political dinners and similar fund-raising events.

- ✓ Allow or cause to be published partisan political articles signed or written by the member that solicit votes for or against a partisan political party or candidate.

- ✓ Serve in any official capacity or sponsor a partisan political club.

- ✓ Participate in any media or group discussions as a partisan advocate.

- ✓ March or ride in a partisan political parade.

- ✓ Display a large political sign, banner or poster on a private vehicle (bumper stickers are allowed).

- ✓ Participate in any partisan effort to provide voters with transportation to the polls.

- ✓ Attend partisan political events as an official representative of the armed forces or while in uniform.

Band adds musical finish to Armed Forces Day

APG News

The 389th Army Band (AMC's Own) delivered a musical tribute to close Military Appreciation Week with an Armed Forces Day concert at Festival Park in Aberdeen May 22.

Led by Chief Warrant Officer 4 Robert Larson, the band offered a mix of musical favorites from different eras, highlighted by a Patriotic Overture conducted by Sgt. 1st Class Mick Chiara. The Aberdeen High School Choir joined the band to sing the national anthem.

Also, the Chapel Hill Music Sensations, a group of 5th graders from Chapel Hill Elementary School in Perry Hall, led by Diana Ciccattelli, performed a patriotic medley.

Maj. Gen. John C. Doesburg, commander of Aberdeen Proving Ground and the U.S. Army Research, Development and Engineering Command, gave remarks to the dozens of listeners who braved the day's high heat.

Dressed in the desert brown camouflage uniform, Doesburg said he wore the uniform because it shows off the American flag.

"The flag symbolizes the U.S. Army moving forward as if carried on a staff into battle like during the Revolutionary War," Doesburg said. "As we celebrate the 54th Armed Forces Day, to all veterans, thanks for what you have done for us, thanks for what you have done for our country."

He said that those who wonder what war is about should go to Andrews Air Force Base and watch wounded Soldiers being carried off the planes carrying American and service flags.

"Some folks come every Wednesday to greet the Soldiers," he said. "This Armed Forces Day, I ask all to think about those deployed, those who will deploy, and to keep them in your prayers."

"God bless America, God bless America's veterans, and God bless the men and women of our armed forces," Doesburg said.

Listeners enjoy musical selections by the 389th Army Band (AMC's Own) during the Armed Forces Day concert in Aberdeen's Festival Park May 22.

Stanford was bringing any available extinguishers to the scene from the numerous police, service and private vehicles.

The fire was spreading quickly, involving both tractor trailers and one other vehicle, when the fuel tank on one of the vehicles ruptured and ignited, spreading burning fuel down the side of the roadway. The personnel were then separated.

Budnick assisted Baltimore City firefighters to place hand and foam lines in service.

Stanford, on the northbound side, assisted in closing off the northbound lanes, moving police vehicles and Budnick's car away from the radiant heat and debris from the fire.

Farrell treated the driver and his niece for lacerations, but there were no other apparent injuries.

The Baltimore City Fire Department Paramedic unit then transported them to an area hospital.

"He thanked us about a million times," Budnick said, adding that he saw the man on the evening news later that night being released from the hospital.

With Baltimore City Fire Department arriving on the scene, Budnick briefed them on what had occurred, and the three quietly left the scene.

"We just wanted to get home," Farrell said.

Although they are veteran firefighters, they agreed they had never responded to an incident quite like that one.

"We usually respond 10 minutes after it happens. We had to think faster with this one," Budnick said. "But once we made the decision to get him out, we had him free two minutes later."

"Everything I was trained to do I did instinctively," Farrell said. "I wouldn't think of responding to a call without my equipment. It makes you appreciate your gear that much more."

"We were in street clothes," Sanford said. "You could feel the heat on your skin from 20 feet away. Normally, we're used to having all the gear and equipment we need right there with us. It was frustrating, but we did the best we could with what we had."

"This was a joint effort, it wasn't just us," Budnick said. "Folks were grabbing extinguishers and bringing them to us and there were at least three others out there helping people. We simply responded. When you know you have to do something now, you can only hesitate so long."

Two people were pronounced dead at the scene of the crash. A third victim died less than an hour later. The tractor trailer drivers were uninjured, and the occupants of the car trapped under the axle were treated and released.

you, my personal thanks. And on behalf of the installation, we are very pleased with your work and proud of our chapel."

"This is a day the Lord has made. Let us rejoice and be glad," Mark said, adding that, "major events of this nature don't just happen."

"The project started in June 2003 and we were able to partially open the chapel for Christmas worship services in December [with the] cost of the project just under $1.5 million. That is a lot of collection baskets," Mark said.

Some of the items completed during the renovation included a new HVAC and fire suppression system, new carpeting and curtains, new tile floors and kitchen cabinets, a new sound system, new lights and ceilings in the administration wing; widened, handicap accessible door ways, sanded and refinished pews and paneling, and new windows throughout the building, she added.

"The chapel looks fantastic and I thank all who made the renovation such a tremendous success," Mark said.

Col. William Willet, APG garrison and installation chaplain; Lt. Col. Ron Smith, U.S. Army Center for Health Promotion and Preventive Medicine chaplain; Maj. Joseph Di Gregorio, Catholic priest; Capt. Anthony Taylor, 143rd Ordnance Battalion chaplain; and Van Schenkhof conducted the Prayers of Dedication and Col. Henry Davis, RDECOM chief of staff, offered a dedication reading.

A special choral selection, "Great is Thy Faithfulness," led by Lonnie Richardson, choir director and APG Catholic coordinator, featured soloist Carleen Moore, the daughter-in-law of retired Brig. Gen. Harmon Moore, the former deputy chief of chaplains who oversaw the chapel's original dedication in 1962.

"It was nice before but now it's beautiful," Moore said of the chapel's new interior.

Moore also is the wife of retired Col. David Moore, formerly of the U.S. Army Medical Research Institute of Chemical Defense.

After the ceremony, Doesburg presented commanders coins to those involved in the restoration process. They included: Charles Chenoweth, Lyndell Barber, Donna Luke, Pat Guidan, Don Houck, Martin Pezzella, James Faulkner, Anthony Gattuso, Susan Gooch, Kirk Simmons, Steve Graham, Sharon King, Sgt. 1st Class Vada Jones, Staff Sgt. William Benjamin, Sgt. De'Angelo Coatie, Spc.

James Hyde and Van Schenkhof.

In addition, Dorine Butash, an RDECOM facility coordinator contractor, received a Certificate of Appreciation "for support of all areas and missions."

Parishioners and workers alike agreed that the effort provided a better worship environment.

"We came across unforeseen problems but we were able to overcome them," said DIO construction manager Kirk Simmons.

He credited DIO shops chief Jeff Smith with "helping out on environmental issues."

"The extra work added time to the project but we met our objective of being open for the holiday worship services thanks to the extra time and effort by the contractors," he said.

Eric Snyder, project manager, said the contract force, led by Rock Springs Heating and Cooling, was "the main reason we accomplished what we did when we did."

"Their expertise was vital to this project," Snyder said. Adding customized windows throughout the building, refinishing the woodwork in the sanctuary, widening all the doorways to make them handicap accessible, and installing the new sprinklers and pipe system were exceptionally challenging areas, he added. He thanked subcontractor Timmy Moore, DIO director Bert Scott, DIO chief engineer Irving "Buzz" Soltis, and Harry Greveris, DIO, for their support.

"They did an exceptional job to make this chapel a better place," Snyder said.

Mary Alexander, an EA chapel parishioner since 1967, agreed.

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Carol Van Schenkhof, right, U.S. Army Research, Development and Engineering Command, leads the opening procession of Aberdeen Proving Ground chaplains up the aisle lined with new carpeting and framed with new pews to open the Edgewood Area Chapel rededication ceremony May 23. With her from left, Lt. Col. Ron Smith, Col. Henry Davis, RDECOM chief of staff, Maj. Joseph Di Gregorio, Capt. Anthony Taylor and Col. William Willet, garrison and installation chaplain.

Cicada wrath

The cicadas are coming in the middle of May. It could be tomorrow, or even today.

You'll know they've arrived when you hear them hum- And when they are here, you'll see me runnin'!

Run as fast as you can, but you can't get away; millions of cicadas are comin' your way!

I can't go outside with my children to play, 'cause I'll be in church, on my knees I will pray.

You may think it is funny when you see me run, especially since I weigh almost half a ton.

I'm glad I'm not pregnant this time of the year, for going into labor would soon be near.

The '87 cicadas are the ones to blame for almost giving my child a cicada name.

I started to cry and thought I'd be dead, as they chased me down and crashed into my head.

Over my head the cicadas did hover, so I grabbed my belly and I ran for cover.

I ran to the bathroom as fast as I could. I am safe for now, and that is good.

I had to be strong, like three brave men, 'cause I had to run past the cicadas again!

I made it home in the nick of time. I ran like I had committed a crime.

I wanted to bang on the door of my neighbor, to let him know I was now in labor!

I know the cicadas for sure are the reason every 17 years my son I'll be teasin'.

I thought of a name for when I gave birth. Poor Brian was almost Cicada Ellsworth!

This story is true, so don't you dare laugh, or you'll be the victim of cicada wrath!!

(Editor's note: Melanie G. Pender, an Institutional Animal Care and Use Committee coordinator at the Edgewood Chemical Biological Center, wrote this poem recently describing an experience she had during the previous 17-year cicadas. This poem is dedicated to her son, Brian K. Ellsworth Jr.)

This cicada was caught on camera at the Arbutus home of Carl Kurnas, a U.S. Army Research Development and Engineering Command biolab technician. "The sound is deafening at times," he said of the noise he came home to in the early evening hours May 26.

Commentary

Is there someone who cares?

Chap. (Maj.) Joseph L. DiGregorio
USAGAPG

A legend is told about a traveler who went from place to place, when one day he saw a palace in flames.

"Is it possible no one cares for this palace," he wondered. At that moment a man turned to him and said, "I am the owner of the palace."

Our world is suffused with the flames of injustice. Is it possible no one cares?

The Bible shows that people have always been aware of and concerned with the evil in the world. Malachi says, "Where is the God of justice?" (Malachi 2:17).

Bible people were not callous to catastrophes. We may be getting that way today. Think of a civilization where factories were established to exterminate millions of people. Where soap was made from human flesh.

We stand today helplessly as we see television scenes of the brutalities throughout many parts of the world. It is dulling our sensibility. Soon we will be horrified at the loss of our sense of horror.

Good and evil are mixed up in the texture of the world. Technology creates many problems. It will not redeem humanity. Genuine faith will. Faith has suffered from pedantry superstition, excessive organization and ritualism. But in it alone lies the hope for saving the world from the plunge to evil.

The bright people of the world are capable of all kinds of distinctions. But the only ones that ultimately count are those between right and wrong, between good and evil.

The prophet Amos speaks to the affluent of his time of the evil of injustice, "Woe to you that are at ease in Zion. You have plundered the poor and the helpless to create your wealth and comfort."

Paul writes to Timothy that he must seek after integrity, steadfastness and a gentle spirit.

The parable of the rich man and Lazarus illustrates God's abiding concern for justice for the disadvantaged.

Genesis asks the question, "What did God think of the world He had made? Did He find it awesome, stunning, splendid?" The answer is that He found it to be good.

God is impressed with goodness.

Strange as it may seem, the Bible does not make evil out to be the greatest problem we face. Our ultimate problem is our relationship to God. Evil comes because we are too proud, stubborn or lazy to maintain that relationship.

Before God, good and evil are not abstractions; they are expressions of our relationship to Him. He has endowed us with the capacity to do His will, to abide in His love. We are to do good and establish justice, not just because that are appealing values, but also because we owe it to God and to persons deserving of His care.

So much of the talk today about justice for the oppressed and wretched of the earth is shrouded with political and economic and sociological language. The poor are charted on maps and scales. Their countries are put in priorities of development. They are categorized according to their relative commitment to communism or democracy.

Even for the so-called socially concerned, the poor seem to be pieces in a cosmic chess game.

Without the passion of an Amos and other like-minded biblical prophets of social justice, the drive to help the poor and oppressed too often sounds like a program for satisfying the emptiness of one's own spiritual poverty rather than a sharing in the divine perception of the world and the perennial battle of good and evil.

No perception, whether biblical or secular, should obscure the agony of the human being. No less than Camus, we should be ready to say, "I shall not accept the justice of this world so long as one person is being treated unjustly." God bless you.
